Main Street Bridge Contractors Will Begin Work in Few Days

W. E. Foley, Inc., successful bidders on the contract, plan to begin operations soon — Preliminary surveys completed by state engineers—100 men will be employed—Charles Blair will be engineer in charge.

Construction will begin on the Main street bridge project in a week or 10 days according to a representative of the E. W. Foley, Inc., construction engineers on the project.

Charles Blair, New York, will be the engineer in charge of the job. He is in Addison to make preliminary plans for the construction of the temporary bridge and to prepare for the construction of the Main street bridge, the main part of the project.

Mr. Foley states there will be about 100 men employed on the project when construction is at its height. Of this number about 50 will be employed locally and the contractors will bring about 50 trained men with them.

The New York State Highway Department will cooperate with the construction engineers on the project. It is expected that some sort of top dressing will be placed on Wall street from Front street to the Railroad. The Foley corporation will place black top on the railroad and the bridge will begin from the railroad on the south side.

The temporary bridge will be of timber and plank construction. Piles will be driven into the river bed for supports for the heavy weight of the bridge itself and for the heavy load it will be called upon to carry while the Main street bridge is being torn down and the new bridge constructed. It is expected that the temporary structure alone will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000.

When the temporary bridge is completed, traffic will be routed from Front street, south to the temporary bridge which will take a diagonal course east and the southern terminus of the bridge will be east of the Hawkins & Hill property on Wombough street. Traffic will go west on Wombough to Main and resume its regular course over Route 17.

The present structure has carried loads way beyond what its original

Corning Medical Regiment Aids Accident Victims

The 102nd medical regiment, of which Company H. Corning National Guard is a part, was called upon to do medical work in an emergency Saturday when a truck of the 106th Regiment went off the road. The truck was loaded with guardsmen and several were severely injured and jarred according to press dispatches from the north country. It is expected that the experience given the local guardsmen will stand them in good stead in the maneuvers which are being held in the north country. The truck was one of a convoy and the driver missed the road when blinded by the dust stirred up by trucks ahead of him. Fifteen of the 106th Infantry, Brooklyn, were injured. The men were taken in army ambulances to the field hospital set up by the 102nd regiment. This is the first serious mishap since the maneuvers in which 100,000 are taking part started.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

The Nazi aerial blitzkrieg turned upon Britain rose as more than 600 aircraft bombed and machine-gunned England steadily this week in a crescendo of intensity. British and German claims have widely and consistently varied as to the results. Nazi news sources stated Tuesday the British fighter planes were avoiding conflicts with the invaders but this assertion was denied by eye-witnesses in Britain. British authorities expect to see fleets of 1,000 planes a day sweeping over their island before the Nazis reach the peak of their air attacks.

Conflicting reports of air losses given out by Nazi and British news agencies make it extremely difficult to get a true picture of the tide the air battle is taking. Each side repeatedly claims to shoot down four to six enemy craft to one lost themselves, the great questionmark being, which side is doing the biggest lying. Neutral observers, however, affirm the fact the Nazis are losing far more pilots than Britain. Many planes shot down hurtle to earth as the crews take to parachutes. Of those able to land safely the Germans are captured while the British return to active service with little delay.

Reports issuing from south coast towns of Britain this week indicated the Germans may be starting long range bombardment of England. Shells are said to have exploded when no planes were overhead and shell fragments have been picked up by military authorities to be analyzed. Guns capable of shooting across the 22 mile wide Channel are said to have been placed in France by the Nazis.

Tuesday, August 20, Is Potato Day For Steuben Farm Bureau—Will Visit Three Farms

All growers invited on tour—Will see nation's largest potato storage and newest production methods—Hardenburg and Bradfield will speak. Picnic dinner at noon.

A notable day in the history of Steuben's potato industry is Tuesday, August 20, when county-growers visit en masse three of the good farms in the region, to observe the developments that have taken place since last year's tour that celebrated the establishment of "Little Maine".

The program begins at the C. D. Wolcott farm on Lent Hill promptly at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time, in a tour of the rotation plots, fertilizer tests, the trials of 60 vitamins thought to influence plant growth, a trial of minor elements, and a variety test in which 17 sorts and kinds of potatoes are planted.

Often spoken of as the experimental laboratory of the vast potato industry of Steuben, the investigations being carried on at the Wolcott farm seek the solution of such problems as what crops to grow in rotation with potatoes so as to give maximum fertility, retention of moisture and the elimination of underground insects.

Nearby are the farms of Frank Clark, recently of Rockville, Connecticut, where in the vicinity of the Lent Hill Church he is growing 70 acres of certified seed of six varieties. Of particular interest is the 12-row truck-mounted sprayer, a fertilizer which has used nitrogen of several different sources, and a surface application of limestone after the potatoes were planted.

Dr. Richard Bradfield, Cornell noted agronomist, is to discuss here the types of soils in Steuben's potato belt, and their adaptation to the crop. Another interesting feature will be a disease clinic to which farmers are invited to bring fresh pulled diseased plants.

Tuscarora Bridge May Be Repaired Soon

It looks as though the New York State Highway Department is going to start work on the Tuscarora Street bridge over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the cut there, judging by the lumber which has been placed there during the past week. It is expected that, new flooring will be placed in this bridge, one of the smallest and yet most used in the community.

James Walker Takes Bride

A quiet home wedding took place at 10:30 Wednesday forenoon, August 14 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Regnard Myers on the Addison-Rathbone road. At that time their daughter, Dorothy Phoebe, was united in marriage to James Allen Walker son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Walker of the Hedgesville road. The Rev. E. S. Cole, of Rathbone R. D. 1, retired Methodist pastor performed the ceremony in the presence of a few near relatives.

The bride is a graduate of Addison High School, class of 1934 and of Genesee State Normal School and since graduating from the latter has been engaged in teaching in vicinity schools. Mr. Walker is also a graduate of Addison High School in the class of 1936 and attended the College of Agriculture at Cornell. He has since been employed in the operation of the family farm in the Town of Rathbone. The young couple have the good wishes of their many friends as they embark upon life's journey together.

Family Gathering at Home of Forrest Perrys

A family get-together and picnic dinner were enjoyed Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest A. Perry, South street. Those present included Dr. and Mrs. Harold S. Perry with their children Norman and Jane of Durham, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. John E. Newman, Miss Jean Newman, Teaneck, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Willard Gossner, Fabius; Mrs. Ida Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Allen, Maynard and Lawrence Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hoaglin and children, David and Sandra, Miss Betty Perry and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Perry.

If tables and chairs can be provided in sufficient amount to accommodate the many hundreds who are expected to attend, the basket picnic lunch will be served at the former Avoca Wheel Factory which Frank Clark is making over into potato storage. A single wing of this building is 210 feet long, 60 feet wide, and when completed the structure will hold a quarter of a million bushels. It is thought to be the largest potato storage in the USA.

In early afternoon the tour visits the new Bishop & Babbin farm on Olmsted Hill where there are about 200 acres of potatoes. Seven different varieties, the Eraline, Kahladin, Smooth Rural, Messaba, Houma, Chippewa and Sebago are planted. There are 15 acres in tuber units, and red, crimson and alsike clover, soybeans, sudan grass and millet have been sown as clover crops for the 1941 planting.

This is a comparison of shallow and high ridge, a 12-row sprayer mounted on a caterpillar tractor that covers 65 to 70 acres in a 10-hour day.

One of the early planted fields is to be dug, and there is to be a picking-up contest by Maine growers using baskets and barrels. The crop is to be sorted and packaged in peck bags.

In the vicinity are the Ralph Perkins and A. M. Schuler farms recently acquired for large scale production, and just to the north is the Prattburg-West Hill section, famed for its good potato soil.

Potato Leaders Attend
Men prominent in the potato industry, such as Harold Simonson, president of the Empire State Potato Club, a director of the New York State Farm Bureau, and one of the largest potato growers of Long Island, and Roy Porter of Elba for nine years president of the Empire State Potato Club, a man who has long played an important part in the potato industry of New York State and nation, are listed among the many distinguished guests.

Several members of the college of agriculture staff, including potato man E. V. Hardenburg, plant disease expert M. F. Barrus, and Ora Smith who has charge of the rotation and fertilizer tests, will appear on the speaking program. Anticipating a vast attendance, a portable public address system will accompany the tour, the dirt roads are to be oiled and all highways in the area will be posted with direction signs to the Wolcott farm and other stops.

The program begins promptly at 10 o'clock daylight time, and all Steuben county potato growers who are interested in the betterment of the industry should arrive at the Wolcott farm at that hour.

Grange Deputy Reviews Degree Work Friday

He witnessed the work of the degree, and drill teams and saw the former present, the third and fourth degrees to a class of candidates.

Mrs. Jennie Mose was in charge of refreshments and Miss Velma Perkins lecturer was in charge of the social hour program.

The Rev. Kenneth Arnold, pastor of the Baptist Church at Interlaken and former pastor of the Addison Baptist Church will play his motor car drum chimes and also speak over the radio Friday noon. He will speak and play from Radio station WHCU of Ithaca at 12:45 daylight saving time.

It was while in Addison that the Rev. Arnold, son of the Rev. George N. Arnold, retired, conceived the idea of chimes from brake drums. Having an ear for music, he secured brake drums of varied tones. Many friends from this vicinity will listen to the broadcast at 12:45 daylight time from Ithaca.

THE VALUE OF A NEWSPAPER

What is a free newspaper and why are free newspapers so essential to freedom of thought and action?

A newspaper is more than an industry, for an industry is an organization in which men take raw materials and convert them into some kind of finished product to be sold at a profit.
The product is usually useful to man and is always demanded by man, or else it would not be made. But it is also paid for in full to satisfy the profit motive which is primary in industry.

A newspaper is also an industry, in one sense.
Yet it serves a far wider purpose than other industries, for a newspaper properly run renders a distinct public service far over and above what the user may pay for it. A newspaper comes nearer the function of the church or the school, than it does the ordinary industry. This is because a newspaper is fundamentally informative.
The school teaches youth the fundamental knowledge of life, the church teaches both the youth and the adult how to live properly. The newspaper is a source of further education which continues with the individual after he leaves school until he dies. It teaches folks how to live peacefully side by side in the great brotherhood which holds all true believers in the principles of Christianity.

The true measure of worth of a newspaper to a community is found in any city or country which does not have a free press. If a newspaper is government dictated, then it merely reflects the acts of those in power. If its policy is coerced by political affiliations it cannot clearly express the views or will of the people in the community and cannot be trusted to always print the truth.

One way the people in a community can test the fidelity of a newspaper is by sending communications to it to be printed. It is the only way in which a citizen can place his thoughts before all the people around him. This paper is glad to print communications free of charge for any reader who has something to say about a public question. The only letters we will refuse to print are those which are libelous, or are plainly written to satisfy personal spite. Newspapers should not be used to fight personal battles. Letters should be signed by the writers, but the names will be withheld from print on request.

Freedom of speech and freedom of press are fundamental elements of Liberty. How few who really have something thought-provoking to say ever take the trouble to say it in print. Yet it is only through the printed word that ideas expand and bring positive action for the benefit of a community.

OUR BEST COOPERATION

Although the Administration is keeping silent on the question, individual newspapers the country over are engaged in sharp debate over the question of handing fifty or sixty destroyers to the British to defend the Island in case of attack by Hitler. Senator Mead of this state says there is no argument about this; it simply will be done, yet the argument keeps going.

Major Elliott, noted military writer a few days ago in an analytical column gave his views that we do not have 50 destroyers to spare even though there are some such number left from World War days which have not been reconditioned. However, he does advocate we enter into some mutual assistance arrangement with Canada a feature of which he believes could be the lending of destroyers to Canada which might turn up in the English channel. For our part the British should give our fleet the use of bases in British Islands in the Atlantic and Pacific.

The suggestion was made in this column a number of weeks ago that our most effective way to help Britain would be to take over patrol of East Indies waters, releasing the British fleet for use in the Atlantic, our fleet to utilize the great base at Singapore from which to throw the fear of a guilty aggressor into the heart of Japan.
Major Elliott's article coincides with the view of this paper.

PEOPLE WANT DEFENSE, NOT WAR

A financial authority recently made this significant observation, "Let us be on guard against the building of war hysteria. Let us keep it clearly in mind that we are talking about defense and not going to war. This is the time for clear thinking rather than emotional thinking."

The standard polls indicate that while the American people are almost unanimously in favor of adequate preparedness, they are also overwhelmingly opposed to belligerent participation in the European slaughter.

Industry does not want war because, if for no higher reason, it knows from its experience in the last World War that it results in ruinous taxation and depression. It will do all in its power to avoid war—even while it does all in its power to make our defenses so strong that all aggressors will hesitate at bringing war to us.

HASTE MADE SLOWLY

As the Senate swings into full debate on the military conscription bill this week it becomes apparent that measure will not be passed by Congress without acrimonious discussion which may end in delaying compulsory training. Some senators who oppose haste in adopting compulsory training are determined there shall be a delay during which time the question may be definitely settled whether or not voluntary enlistment can supply enough men so it will not be necessary to conscript the youth of the nation.

Indeed, there is now a strong undertow of sentiment in the national capital to delay until January first any conscription which may be legislated into law. This is a sensible compromise and one which should win great support as the days go by during the progress of debate in Congress and outside of the legislative walls.

Opponents of conscription who are in favor of adequate measures for national defense claim that the country has not given voluntary enlistment a fair trial. They advocate a real drive for volunteers be initiated with two innovations being tried; accepting volunteers for one-year training periods instead of three, and upping the army pay from $21 a month to $30.

In support of their claims that voluntary enlistment has not yet been thoroughly tested there now come the facts and figures of a rapidly growing voluntary army. Enlistments for July totaled more than 31,000 men, bringing the army strength over 270,000 men. If this growing tide of volunteers should continue until January 1, we should pass the 400,000 mark and a ratio of gain comparative to the increases through May, June and July would bring our army to about a half million men. This figure would be a one hundred per cent increase in six months.

Enthusiasm for a huge, newly conscripted army should not turn our heads at this time. We must remember there are two major problems facing the country as we hasten to construct a military machine which will cause the dictators to pause in their mad attempts at world domination. First, an American army of a couple of million men would be nothing more than a broomstick brigade if called hastily to the colors. Second, the problem of arming, on the ground, in the air and on sea is a tremendous one which requires coordination of industry. To call men between 21 and 30 to the colors under a compulsory training bill would be sure to disrupt our industrial machine in many spots; just as it should be brought to greatest efficiency.

It is quite evident that many in the Administration are not looking at the question of national defense from the long range viewpoint which is essential. We as a nation are not immediately threatened. If Hitler should make the threatened attack upon Britain and succeeded in a direct assault this fall we could not do anything in a military way to thwart him, unless we declared war and sent our fleet to the rescue. Should Hitler actually capture England war might then come for us, but it would not come immediately, for any frontal assault on the Island will cost the dictators an immense price in men, materials and especially planes, oil and the essentials of mechanized war which they need the most.

Hitler has delayed attacking Britain two months after conquering France. Many believe this delay will prove fatal to his plans because the British have been able to reorganize and turn their Island into an armed fortress. Haste was the essence of defense for Britain the past two months. But haste is not the only essence of defense for us in preparing to meet any projected attack from the other side of either ocean, for no power could hope to attack us without months of careful preparation.

As this is written Hitler has allowed to pass the most auspicious week in which to attack Britain across the channel. If he hesitates four weeks longer he will forfeit practically every chance of invading Britain this year, for the fogs descend in September making air attack risky business.
Until Hitler does capture England and destroy or capture the British fleet we can go about our preparations for defense in an orderly way, without hysteria. Conscription of young men this fall is not an orderly way to prepare for defense. Any compulsory conscription should not begin before the first of next year.

AWAIT WILLKIE'S ADDRESS

Saturday afternoon the radios of the country will almost entirely be tuned in on the acceptance speech of Wendell Willkie. The country is interested first, because the country wants to know more about the man who won the Republican nomination against the wishes of the politicians of that party. It is interested second, because the speech will be Mr. Willkie's own, written without benefit of ghost writers.

Most of all the open-minded voters of the country will be interested because the speech will voice more truly the platform on which Mr.
Willkie stands, than does the platform adopted by the Republican Convention at Philadelphia.
Mr. Willkie having won the nomination in spite of Republican politicians he is free to turn his back upon the Philadelphia platform and write his own ticket for the campaign. The country will await with keenest interest to see how Mr.
Willkie has written that ticket while he "rested" out in Colorado.

"Our Ships Not For Sale" Says Senator Mead

"Neither the sale nor the transfer of ships to Great Britain or any other power is contemplated by the Congress at this time," said Senator Mead in a statement issued recently.

"Congress definitely settled this issue so far as the present session is concerned when it approved H. R. 9822 prohibiting the transfer of Naval Ships from this to any other Nation."

President Roosevelt approved of that legislation only last month, and, therefore, the issue for the time-being is closed.

"The outright sale of Naval ships is prohibited by the Act of May, 1917 and although both the Act of 1917 and the Act passed last month might be repealed, there is no legislation pending in either House to vitiate either law."

"Under the rules of International Law and in keeping with the provisions of our Neutrality Policy, America may sell military equipment and supplies to the Nations of the world provided they make payment in cash and take the cargoes away in their own ships, but in view of the fact that we are building the strongest Navy in the world neither Congress nor the President contemplates the sale or the transfer of our war vessels to Great Britain or any other Nation at this time."

Driving Licenses Must Be Renewed

Three year driving licenses issued in 1937 expire in September of this year. Renewals in this county will begin on Monday according to Bert Webster, who is in charge of the Auto License Bureau office in Corning. There are about 10,000 in the district who must renew under this three year plan.

A careful check is asked of all drivers so that they may renew their license if they have the three year certificates issued in September 1937. Blanks are now available in the Chamber of Commerce office and at the license bureau or at the Webster store in the evenings.

The cost of the licenses is $1.50. They expire September 30, 1940 and the new licenses will be issued to September 1943. The renewing will begin officially August 19.

A new feature of the licenses this year is the request for the license number of the car if the applicant is an owner.

Taxpayers Group Seeks Additional Funds for Survey

The Steuben County Taxpayers Association is still seeking memberships and voluntary contributions to help finance a survey of Steuben County governmental spending units according to William G. Hollands, Hornell, chairman for the finance committee. The funds are being sought from small, individual contributions rather than large contributions, to enable all persons to take part in the survey and its results.

For it is hoped through this survey to show whereby some expenditures can be cut down in the management of Steuben County government and enough will be saved on taxes to more than compensate for the small contribution.

The cost of the survey will approximate $2,200 and $800 will be needed for postage, printing, correspondence and other committee work of the association.

The survey will be started this month by the Citizens' Public Expenditure Survey, Inc., a non-political, non-profit organization which makes these surveys in the interests of the taxpayers.

Members of the Steuben County Board of Supervisors are cooperating with the association in permitting the survey to be made in Steuben County offices by these expert auditors and many of the Steuben County officials have expressed a desire to cooperate with the Association to furnish information desired.

Erwin Seeks Fire District

The Town of Erwins taxpayers are considering the establishment of a fire district for Erwins, Gang Mills, Coopers Plains and Beartown Rd. and vicinity.

If the proposition is carried by petition, 23 wells for fire hydrants will be drilled in the area, a fire house will be built at a cost of $3,000 and $6,000 will be spent for a fire truck.

The petitions must be signed by owners of 51 percent of the assessed property by valuation, in the district. The funds are to be raised by taxation in the district over a period of five to 10 years.

The reason for the proposal, is due to the fact that Painted Post apparatus can no longer be called for fires outside the village.

Miss Blanche Garner, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delos Garner of Van Vleet, became the bride of Adolph Jansen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jansen of Woodhull Saturday, August 10, 1940. The marriage was solemnized at the Wesleyan Methodist parsonage, Riverside, Cornish, by the Rev. Joseph McClintock. Miss Elin Jansen, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid while Walter Morseman, cousin of the bride, served as best man.

The bride wore a gown of navy dotted silk with white accessories with a corsage of garden flowers. Her attendant was attired in green silk with white accessories and she also had a corsage of garden flowers.

The bride is well known in Addison and vicinity where she attended high school. Mr. Jansen is a graduate of Almond High School in the class of 1939.

Following the ceremony the immediate families were entertained at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jansen, Woodhull. The refreshment table was centered with a handsome wedding cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jansen will reside with the former's parents while he is associated with his father in operation of the farm.

Expecting an attempt to invade England by troops as the air blitzkrieg reaches a peak, British air observers have been alert to any concentration of boats along the coasts of the occupied countries. Many military authorities say Hitler will not attempt a frontal invasion which would be fraught with grave danger, but will try to reduce the ports and arms industries solely by air attack. Color is led to this viewpoint by the fact tides were most favorable to a landing force last week as they flowed towards the east coast making it easier to beach boats. These tides have now swung the other way.

Partisans of both major parties are waiting for the Willkie acceptance speech to be given at his home town of Elwood, Ind., Saturday. This will be the signal for active opening of the 1940 campaign. Willkie is expected to express his stand on many questions of national significance at Elwood after consulting leaders in the Republican Party and many deserters from Democratic ranks.

National Democratic Chairman Flynn found himself out on a limb this week when he tried to defend the sale of the Democratic campaign book after attacks by Willkie. Willkie stated that if elected he would prosecute corporation purchasers of advertising in the book as well as those selling it in violation of the newly passed Hatch corrupt practices act. Flynn defended the sale of this book, but found himself in a untenable position when Attorney General Jackson expressed the opinion Willkie was right.

The President ended an inspection tour of eastern defense projects the first of the week expressing the belief the national preparedness program although not fully under way was "getting there fast". Accompanied by Sec. of Navy Knox Mr. Roosevelt visited many plants along the New England coast where naval vessels are being built and coast defenses are being strengthened.

A hurricane which swept across the southeastern states over the week-end took more than 35 lives and left a heavy toll of damage to property. The storm struck hardest in the groups of small islands off the coast of S. Carolina and Georgia. The city of Charleston was cut off from all communication for hours following the sweep of a tidal wave up the coast after the storm. Homeless in the area include more than 2,000, mostly negroes. The Red Cross is helping sufferers.

Permanent Camp May Be Secured For Girl Scouts

Steuben County Girl Scouts may have a permanent summer and year-round camp of their own as the result of a talk between Assemblyman Abbot Low Moffat of the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and Assemblywoman Mrs. Edith Cheney last Saturday night. The "Aisle of Pines" famous Hallett Mansion near Wayne may be converted into a permanent camp for Girl Scouts.

An attempt will be made to have the heirs permit the Girl Scouts the use of the property, one time the show place of Keuka and Waneta Lakes. It is on a high hill overlooking both lakes and has a swimming pool on the estate. Should the Scouts take it over it is expected that the beach front could be rented to give the girls swimming on one of the lakes.

No action has been taken by the Steuben Girl Scout leaders towards acquiring the property. Should they desire it, however, Mrs. Cheney states she will do all she can to bring about the transfer.
